Question [CANNEST] how it works with Canadian express after the person leaving Canada

Erika Hashizume <erika.m.hashizume@gmail.com>
To: Justin Shim <justin.shim@cannestimm.com>

Hi Justin,

How are you?

I saw that express entry's draw points were FINALLY getting a bit lower last week.

That gave me a thought about what if I could get invited after 1st March (My points will increase to 514) but before 22nd April (visa expiring date). And started thinking that I should be re to apply for BOWP just in case. So I wanted to clarify what I have to collect for these so that I can act quickly if it happens.

I did some research and I can see that these process (PR applying & BOWP applying) has to happen BEFORE 22nd April while regally obtaining my work permit here. (Please correct another way) Otherwise, I have to wait until I get PR approved to come back or work. (I checked extension work permit pages but it doesn't look like I am eligible for any of that.) The requirement for BOWP is

- Live in Canada when I apply for BOWP
- valid work permit
- submitted PR application
- acknowledgment of receipt letter (from PR)

And required documents for PR are

- fees/copy of the receipt
- Photo
- Proof of past five years residency obligation (Do I need this?)
- passport copy
- identity document issued outside of Canada (Do I need this?)

So here are my questions that I want to clarify,

Q1: Is there any work permit extension that I am eligible for my current WH visa (to give me some time to apply for BOWP)?

Q2: My understanding of all these PR, BOWP has to be done before 22nd April is correct?

Q3: Can you modify the required documentation that I listed for me if I missed anything or something I don't need?

Thank you so much for your time!

Erika

Hey Justin,

Thank you so much for the answers. It is good to hear that all processes including submission and receiving are online. And yes, in the future, if I renew my passport, I will want to confirm the timing of updating information/points on express entry.

I heard that these points are 1 month earlier than the exact year.

- My birthday is Nov 08: when exactly do I lose points every year?
- My working experience started on June 13, 2022, but my work permit/visa was issued on April 22 (this is the date of not longer on my co-op visa): when exactly do I

Hi Erika,

Please see below answers for your questions:

- Can we do all of process online? by email?
 - Yes, we do all the process online to submit. After that, sometimes, the officer can send me an email for updates.
- Do I need any ACTUAL document as a paper? Or scanned copy and emailing you to apply is okay?
 - You do not need to prepare the document as a paper as we will submit everything online.
- Is there anything I will have to receive as MAIL. but not email?
 - Only email as they will not send anything as mail.

Once you renew your passport, I can simply update on the system so please provide a copy of it to me. Please feel free to ask me if you have any other questions.

Thank you

Hi Justin,

Thank you for the screenshot. Now I have a bit more clear visual understanding of each account.

Condition of EE you mentioned, I believe you are talking about this Express Entry Canadian Experience Class

Additionally, I am curious how the process will go if I leave.

For example,

Once I got an invitation.

- Can we do all of process online? by email?
- Do I need any ACTUAL document as a paper? Or scanned copy and emailing you to apply is okay?
- Is there anything I will have to receive as MAIL. but not email?

Also I am thinking about when is the good time to renew my passport since I need to apply another visa for another country. This Express Entry account is also connected to the process if I renew?

Hi Erika,

Yes, for the BCPNP, there is only one account for you.
And we also have an account for EE but it is under my consultant ID which is linked to all my other clients.
So we cannot share this EE ID, but I can share the screenshot if you need.

If you leave Canada, your employer may not support your BCPNP any longer.
Then we will not be qualified for the BCPNP candidate.

Hi Justin,

I have my account of BC PNP that you shared with me before. Is this my only account?
My understanding is this BC PNP express entry does do both for BC PNP and EE.

Q1 if do I have EE specific account, can you share with me?

Also, if I leave Canada, I will be no longer applicable for BC PNP.

Q2 Do I have to recreate my account only for EE.
Q3 if so, can you share where do I have to create my account?

Thanks,
Erika

- (0) Do you mean CEC (Canadian Experience Class)?

- (4) If you can have CLB 7 in French, the chance to get an invitation would be quite high.

Hi Justin!

- (0) CEE = Canadian Express Entry
- (2) no, if what I say in (1) is correct, I have more possibility within next 2 years even I left Canada because they consider people who lived in Canada "Canadian" category.
- That's why I mentioned 2 years.
- (3) yes, the same condition with French CLB 7. Next year, and the year after
- (4) the points look very far but do you still think it's potential is there?

If you can set up meeting this week some where, that might be better and easier to discuss.

I know that if I live in Canada in last 2 years, I will be still appreciable to "Canadian living category". But what else do I have to be aware of?

- If you leave Canada, you may not be able to apply for BCPNP as you will not have an employer who can support you.
But we can keep your EE profile with the same CRS.

- (2) if I leave, what my points will look like for next 2 years looks like ???

- Do you mean with your 2 years of work experience in Canada?

- (3) if I successfully get French minimum score (CLB 7), what will be my points for next 2 years?

Do you mean with your 2 years of work experience in Canada as well as French CLB 7?

- (4) what is your opinion or recommendation about leaving option instead of staying with RO visa from perspective of PR?

- It depends, but I personally recommend you to be in Canada with an employer who can support your BCPNP so we can have a higher chance to
